

ABSTRACT

A coin bank includes a housing, a coin separating member, a coin sorting member on which the coin separating member is movably supported, and a metering tray supported adjacent the coin separating member. The 5 coin separating member includes at least one coin receiving aperture. The coin sorting member includes at least one coin sorting aperture and is mounted to the housing. The metering tray is supported by the housing and regulates the number of associated coins delivered to 10 the coin separating member.